Dear Parents/Caregivers

I hope that families enjoyed the long weekend, making the most of yesterday's sunshine.

Constable Ross Greer will be monitoring traffic around the school and carpark. He has suggested that parents look at different places, other than the carpark, to collect their children after school. This would avoid the long line of cars waiting to turn from Cemetery Road in to Gladstone Road.

CHATBUS MUFTI DAY FUNDERAISER

Thank you from the Student Council to everyone who contributed to our Chatbus

Fundraiser last Friday. There were some amazing outfits and $371.60 was raised. Chatbus is a valuable resource supporting the well-being of our children by providing counselling when needed. The Chatbus is in our school every Friday and children can choose to attend the bus or parents and teachers can recommend them to the service.

WELCOME

We welcome Emily Wang into Room 10 and Kacie Woo into Room 9. We wish them happy times at East Taieri School.

FUTURE FOCUSED EDUCATION OPPORTUNITY TO HEAR INTERNATIONAL PRESENTER MARK OSBORNE – 15 JUNE

We are delighted to be able to offer parents and caregivers the opportunity to hear internationally renowned presenter Mark Osborne explain how schools are preparing students for 'their future; not our past'.

Mark has worked with both East Taieri and St Clair Schools on the development of a collaborative approach to teaching as well as promoting learner agency in our students.

We are offering two parent sessions on Thursday 15 June – one at East Taieri School, 4.00pm – 5.00pm and the other at St Clair School 7.00pm – 8.00pm.

Outline of presentation: 'Future Focused Education'

Schools, just like many other parts of our community, are experiencing significant change. They are trying to keep pace with rapidly evolving technology, changes in the world of work, and the demands being placed on our young people. This presentation will look at some of the key trends impacting on education and how schools are responding to these trends by adopting innovative approaches not only to what and how students learn, but also where they learn. Come along to hear how schools are preparing students for 'their future; not our past'. Mark Osborne is Director of Leading Learning Ltd and has been a teacher, school leader and consultant for more than 20 years. He works nationally and internationally on future-focused education, innovative learning environments and educational leadership, helping schools build great places to learn and the capability to make the most of those spaces. Mark is also a doctoral researcher at the University of Melbourne currently looking at change leadership in innovative learning environments. Prior to becoming a consultant, Mark was on the foundation leadership team at Albany Senior High School. He has also worked extensively in libraries, with digital technologies and in makerspaces, working to create diverse, inclusive communities that help each other learn, innovate and find fulfilment.

LOST

- A rainbow multi-coloured jacket – size 10, missing from Room 4, belonging to Chelsea Cross.
- A new pair of sketchers size 3, belonging to Rhys Lewis from Room 6. They are very distinctive – navy/orange/black with flashing lights on side. Named in the inside of the tongue of the shoe.

WEATHER STORIES FROM ROOM 6

Sunshine

Sun can warm your back
You could put a sprinkler under your tramp
But beware! The sun
Can burn you up like a sausage.

By Harrison Corbett

The Rain.

It was pouring with rain. I grabbed my umbrella. My gumboots were full of water. When I was walking my gumboots went splish slosh. There was a little breeze, not enough to blow my umbrella down. I was soaking wet. When I got home I looked like a dribble monster. I went to the window and saw ripples dripping on the puddles.

Rain

One day it was pouring down. The rain splatted and hissed, and made ripples and puddles. It rumbled and tumbled to the ground. It soaked me. I stepped in cold puddles. Ripples and puddles were everywhere.

By Ruby Hayes

Weather

Thunder and lightning are two bad weathers
And tornadoes maybe three
I like sunshine because
I get to ride my bike.

By Hugo Niak

Disappointment

Today it is very cloudy. The clouds are misty and covering Saddle Hill. The trees are more still than a turtle. It is drizzling, and everything is wet. The clouds are dark. I thought it was going to be sunny.
